

Dear Students,

On behalf of the director of the fellowship program at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (UNC), Dr. Robert Dupuis, we are pleased to share with you some information about the graduate and postdoctoral fellowship programs available at UNC. We would like to also invite you to attend our two-part webinar series to learn more about these exciting opportunities. Please, register for the webinars through the link/QR code provided in the attached flyer and below.

What we offer:

The UNC Eshelman School of Pharmacy is a nationally recognized leader in progressive pharmaceutical care practice, education, and research. At UNC, we offer both industry-sponsored and academic fellowships in addition to graduate programs. Industry sponsors include GSK, Certara, PPD, and several others. Fellowships are focused on functional areas, such as clinical research/drug development, regulatory affairs, medical affairs, market access and informatics, pharmacokinetics and pharmacodynamics, and pharmacovigilance. Academic fellowships are also available in T32 clinical pharmacology, cardiology, infectious disease, and oncology.

Webinars Details:

First Webinar: 10/3/2022 8-10 PM EST

- 8-9 PM: Informational session with UNC fellowship directors as well as current first and second year fellows. The webinar will include presentations about the programs offered with allocated time for Q&A.
- 9-10 PM: Informational session with UNC graduate program directors.

Second Webinar: 10/6/2022 8 PM EST

- 8-9:30 PM: This webinar will be hosted by current first and second year fellows. It will include a presentation of application tips from current fellows and the majority of the session will be dedicated to answering prospective candidates' questions.
- 9:30 PM: This webinar will be hosted by current graduate students and directors. The majority of the session will be dedicated to answering prospective candidates' questions.
