Purpose:

The fellowships at Belmont University College of Pharmacy are two-year post-doctoral training programs focused in drug information, evidence-based practice, teaching, and research. Belmont works in conjunction with corporate healthcare partners and government agency to give fellows real-world experience in the specific fields of drug information, toxicology and information management. The fellowships provide opportunities to develop an understanding of academia, research, drug information, corporate pharmacy, and government agency. Upon completion of the program, candidates will be qualified to pursue careers in each respective area.
